Gentlemen:

I have a coin dated in 1749. It is an English two pence of the King George II reign. It was found in a coffer dam for the new Champlain Bridge being constructed over Lake ^{Near} Champlain. / Where this bridge is being constructed the famous English Fort Amherst was erected at a cost of over $10,000,000. The coin is in a good state of preservation. I was told to write you people, the party informing me stating that you might be interested in purchasing the same for your museum.

Very truly yours,

C. F. Peterson
